

Rio Grande Recorder Chapter of the American Recorder Society

Join the Music

Play the Recorder !

A chapter of the American Recorder Society, the Rio Grande Recorders are a group of music enthusiasts who get together several times a month to play a wide variety of music in the Las Cruces / El Paso area. We meet to play twice a month at Good Samaritan Village in Las Cruces: Buena Vida entrance, the second Thursday of the month, 7:00-9:00 pm. Thursday meetings are conducted by professional musicians in the area. We also play on the Saturday afternoon following the fourth Thursday of the month from 1:00 – 3:00 pm.

About Recorders

Recorders are originally Renaissance flute-like instruments that have had a modern rebirth. There are typically seven different sizes of recorders being used today; ranging from the sopranino about nine inches in length, soprano, alto, tenor, bass, great bass, to the largest, the contra-bass, about eight feet in length.

Many recorders are handmade using a variety of beautiful woods such as boxwood, maple, rosewood, or ebony. Today, recorders of quite excellent quality are also made in plastic as well as wood. There is no limit to the musical artistry that can be achieved on this excellent instrument.
